1. A new short-wave auxiliary station for Radio Belgrade is currently being built by the Trudbenik Construction Enterprise near the village of Stubline, on the Obrenovac-Valjevo highway. A new asphalt road approximately 800 meters long leads westward to the radio station from a point at a distance of approximately 1,000 meters from the intersection of the road leading from the Stubline railroad station to the village itself, and the main road.
2. The radio station is located in an area which is 250 meters long by 300 meters wide, and which is surrounded by barbed wire. A building which is 90x50 meters in size and which is located in the northern part of this area, has been completed. It will serve to house the station proper. According to the plan, apartments will also be built. A high antenna is located in the southwestern corner of the area. A guard post for the militia is located to the left of the gate of entry into the area.
3. Approximately 400 workers are employed in the work of construction. Workers' barracks are located on the main road, to the south of the road which leads to the radio station. The secretary of the construction site is Zarko Borjanovic.

Comment: The above station is believed to be an auxiliary to Radio Belgrade II, which is located in Makis [redacted] the construction of the above radio station, the scope and function of which is under the direction of the Ministry of Defense.
